* When considering the retention of a child at any grade level multiple factors must be considered. Retention is a serious decision and no single factor should be reviewed in isolation to determine the retention of a child. For that reason schools are encouraged to establish committees to review the documentation regarding student retention. The committee should consist of the current teacher and a teacher from the next grade level. If the student is in a subgroup such as EC, LEP, or AIG, teacher from those areas of expertise should be represented on the committee. All information available regarding the child should be considered by the review committee. The committee then makes a recommendation to the principal. By North Carolina statute, the principal makes the final decision.
